

You know those pesky branches and sticks that hinder garden cultivation? Well don't toss them away! Instead, have some creative fun; paint them and stand them upright in your garden. Here are some examples:

Are there any artists who are also Beatles fans out there?

Whatever your music preference, get busy during these winter months and make a colourful plaque to adorn your garden and celebrate your musical inspiration.

DIY veggie markers are easy to make. Most gardeners dig up rocks any way, so why not put them to use with a bit of paint. Finish with a UV varnish, usually available at art supply stores, to protect your masterpieces.
